Did you know that currently, more than 225 million professionals are on LinkedIn? Including executives from all five hundred of the Fortune 500 companies, as well as numerous other industries? What are you waiting for! Come get LinkedIn!

Do you know how to introduce yourself without dropping your drink? Are you able to eat a salad and captivate people's attention with your research ideas? What's your opening line? If you don't know, find out at our next graduate development workshop on October 23rd! Learn how to network without the nerves!

Do you have what they're looking for? How do you catch their attention? Come meet with a current search committee as they discuss the ins and outs of screening candidates, their expectations, and what you need to know when applying for academic positions.

Fall 2013